Negros Plan to Spread Lunch Cafe Boycott

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negros may soon begin using boycotts in their campaign for equal service at lunch counters in the South.

Demonstrations for integrated lunch counters have spread rapidly during the past week.

More than 300 Negros met in Winston-Salem, N.C., Friday night and voted to boycott stores which operate segregated lunch counters.

The threatened boycott came on the heels of new demonstrations in Henderson, N.C., Orangeburg, S.C., and Montgomery, Ala.

There were sit-down demonstrations Friday at two Henderson variety stores and a drug store counter. A telephoned bomb hoax caused the Rose Five and Ten Cent Store in Henderson to be closed.

Before the bomb threat, witnesses said whites kept the lunch counter filled so that none of the demonstrators gained seats.

The demonstrators, most of them apparently from Kittrell College, eight miles south of Henderson, marched on the F. W. Woolworth store where they sat at the lunch counter reading and studying after their requests for service were ignored. After an hour, the store was closed. They then went to the Rose store, and after it closed, returned to Woolworth's which had reopened. It was closed a second time and cleared of all customers.

A crowd of whites jeered the Negros when the store was cleared the second time but there was no trouble.

The demonstrations began at Greensboro, N.C., Feb. 1, spread to other North Carolina cities, then to Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee and Alabama.

The Negro meeting at Winston-Salem Friday night, sponsored by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, was held by Carl Matthews, the first demonstrator there, "to arouse the sympathies for the masses there must be some suffering, so get ready for it. If you don't wish to help this movement, please don't hinder it by showing a lack of unity."

A demonstration at Orangeburg Friday produced two arrests and conflicting statements from Police Chief Howell Hall and the NAACP in New York. The NAACP claimed a Negro, Melvin Flood, was jumped by several whites and struck on the head when he attempted to take a seat in the Kress store.

Hall said a white man and a Negro were arrested. He declined to identify them but said they exchanged blows. Calling the NAACP's charge "ridiculous," Hall said "no youths were involved in the incident. No one was hit over the head. No one jumped anyone. It was just a mild exchange of blows."

Negro students of Alabama State College at Montgomery demonstrated at the courthouse there for the second day Friday. Gov. John Patterson had said their school might be closed if they did not stop. However, the students said if their school is closed, they will attempt to enroll at white Alabama colleges.

This Bullet Went Through a Lot

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A bullet passed through a gopher, a wood fence, a house wall and a sofa before lodging in the back of a 4-year-old girl.

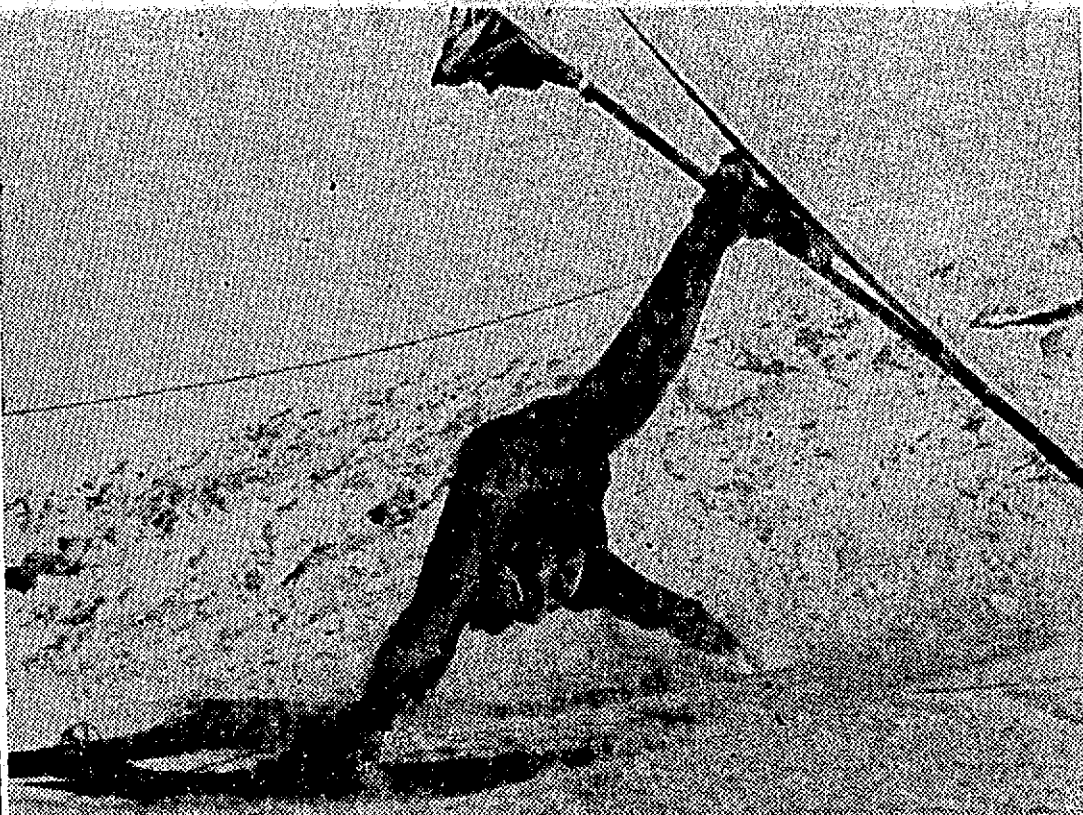

Donna J. Sword was watching television when the bullet hit her Thursday.

Surgeons removed the bullet. She is in fair condition.

Douglas J. Beane, 24, a neighbor, told investigators he had shot a 30 caliber rifle at the gopher, killing the animal. He was released after questioning.

Sees Payoffs Freedom of Press Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee said today it saw a "potential threat to freedom of the press" in payoffs allegedly exacted by racketeers from some metropolitan newspapers and big publishing and distributing firms.

The statement was included in a report to the Senate on the committee's 1959 investigation of alleged labor racketeering in the racketeering in the wholesale delivery of newspapers, magazines and newspaper Sunday supplements.

The report said big payments were exacted by racketeers to avert costly delivery stoppages, and as a price for continued labor peace in the delivery field. It said the money went to Harold Gross, a convicted New York City labor extortionist, and Cornelius (Connie) Noonan, head of the Inland Terminal Workers Local No. 1730 of the International Longshoremen's Assn.

The report said the committee had found payments aggregating $307,136.80 had been made to Gross and Noonan by the New York Times, the New York Mirror, the Neo-Gravure Printing Co. of Weehawken, N. J., and the American Weekly, owned by the Hearst Publishing Co. Inc. It said American Weekly paid to avert a threatened stoppage of its deliveries to the New York Journal American. There was no immediate comment from the newspapers.

The report accused a group of New York racketeers of exacting big extortion payoffs from wholesale newspaper and magazine distributing firms in the New York area, and infiltrating both the management of some of these companies, and some labor unions.

Weather Is Rugged Over Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A fast-moving storm which raked the South and Midwest swept into the Northeast today with heavy snow, sleet and strong winds.

The violent weather dumped heavy snow in western New York State and some sections of southern New Hampshire and Maine. Fresh falls measured seven inches in Buffalo, N. Y.

A mixture of wet snow, sleet and rain pelted southern parts of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont and interior sections of Massachusetts and New York.

The heavy snow line was from southern Illinois into Indiana, northwestern Ohio, southern Michigan and western New York.

The center of the storm, which followed the pattern of several similar storms this month in the eastern half of the nation, was located south of Lake Erie this morning. A new storm center appeared forming over northern New Jersey and was expected to move along the New England coast.

Snow up to more than four inches was in prospect for northern New Hampshire and northern Maine, with heavier falls in mountain areas.

Winds of 2-35 m.p.h. fanned the falling snow into huge drifts in many areas, including Detroit.

Gale warnings were displayed along the New England coast and the southern half of the Great Lakes region.

The stormy weather, which included a tornado and squalls in Florida Thursday, was blamed for at least 22 deaths.

Margaret Is Engaged to Photographer

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret was announced tonight to be engaged to Anthony Armstrong Jones, a court photographer.

Betrothal of the queen's 29-year-old sister was announced tonight at Clarence House, the princess' London home.

Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, were said by a spokesman at Buckingham Palace to be "delighted because this is such a happy match."

The announcement comes a little over four years after Margaret's announcement that she would not marry Peter Townsend. Differences involving their religion—he was a divorced man—broke up that romance. Townsend last December married another girl.

The princess and Armstrong Jones—he is 29 too—first met two years ago in London at a party. "They have met continuously since that time at various places and they have been together at Balmoral and at Sandringham," said the Clarence House press secretary, Maj. John Griffin.

Princess Margaret was born at Glamis Castle in Scotland. Legend says a girl born there will marry before she is 21 or become a spinster.

By the time she was 16 her name was being linked romantically with young King Mihai of Romania—who had merely leaned forward to lend her this theater program. By the time she was 25 she had had 50 suitors—real or rumored.

But it was Peter Townsend, a war hero, a commoner, a divorced man 14 years her senior, with whom she fell in love.

When she became 25 on Aug. 31, 1955 she became free to follow her own heart and marry Townsend without asking the consent of Queen Elizabeth II. Few doubted but that she would.

But amid a fever of speculation she announced she was putting off her wedding before love. Her statement said she knew she could contract a civil marriage by renouncing her rights to succession to the throne (she was then the third in the line of succession).

"But mindful of the church's teaching that Christian marriage is indissoluble, and conscious of my duty to the commonwealth, I have put these considerations before any others," she said.

No date was announced for her marriage to Armstrong Jones.

Train Carrying 200 Plunges Into Creek

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—Part of a train carrying 200 passengers plunged into a creek today after a flood-weakened bridge collapsed as the train crossed.

Seven persons were killed and 30 injured. The wreck occurred 100 miles west of Rockhampton, in central Queensland.

Never Fired a Shot in Anger

OTTAWA (AP)—The new boss of the famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police says he has never fired a shot in anger. But Clifford W. Harrison, named commissioner of the Mounties Thursday night, says he's been shot at twice on narcotic raids. Harrison takes over April 1 from C. E. Rivett, 58, who is retiring for health reasons.

Doubts Rights Compromise Is Possible

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leading Senate Southern forces in a bitter filibuster fight against civil rights legislation, voiced doubt today that any compromise is possible.

"We have not been approached on any compromise, and I don't know of any we could possibly accept," Russell told a reporter in advance of today's unusual Saturday Senate session. Normally the Senate adjourns from Friday to Monday.

Nor was there any talk of compromise from backers of the civil rights proposals as they planned to force the Senate into day after day, round-the-clock sessions starting Monday in an effort to wear out the Dixie contingent in its efforts to talk the legislation to death.

There was a lot of somber talk, however, in debate and among the members as to whether one or more of them might collapse during the planned marathon debate.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), told his colleagues in a Senate speech Friday "I do not want the blood on my hands" if, as he phrased it, some accident befalls someone in the nonstop sessions.

That was why, he said, he engineered what he termed a test vote on the dawn-to-dawn session issue. He did this by making a motion — which he himself opposed — to recess Monday's session at 5 p.m. instead of going on without a stop until the Southerners allow the Senate to vote on civil rights amendments.

The vote was 67-10 against a 5 p.m. adjournment, but Russell and six other Southerners voted against the motion in an apparent effort to blunt his test vote.

The Southern forces are assuring each other the marathon never will last through a full week. They said they are counting on their adversaries to give up this task after three or four days and try for a two-thirds majority vote to muzzle the filibuster by imposing a time limit on debate. Russell said he does not concede they ever can get the necessary votes to impose a time limit.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.), another mainstay in the Southern contingent, announced he would call no meetings of Senate subcommittees which he heads until the issue is settled. He is chairman of the Armed Services Committee's Military Construction subcommittee, the Space Committee's Authorization subcommittee, and the Appropriations subcommittee on Legislative Appropriations.

Timber Areas Around Lakes in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Engineers estimate that 71,468 acres of federally owned land around reservoirs in Arkansas are suitable for timber production. Areas around reservoirs would be eligible for sustained yield tree farming with the enactment of pending legislation to give the Army Engineers authority to conduct such operations. Counties would be given part of the revenues.

The bill, by Rep. Frank Smith (D-Miss.), was approved Wednesday by the House Public Works Committee.

Throughout the country there are about 750,000 acres of federal land above the normal pool levels of reservoirs under Army Engineer jurisdiction that are considered suitable for timber production.

In Arkansas, the government owns 258,874 acres in and around eight reservoirs. Of this total 154,123 acres normally are above water and 71,468 are considered suitable for timber.

The timber areas are Bull Shoals, 15,451 acres; Norfolk, 13,463; Blakely Mountain, 25,000; Blue Mountain, 6,569; Narrows Dam, 4,000; Nimrod, 5,500; Bayou Boutaw, 1,000; Table Rock, 379.

Local Music Groups Join in Observance of 'Parade of American Music' This Month

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Local music clubs have been uniting to observe the National Federation of Music Clubs "Parade of American Music" during the month of February. Yesterday, the Friday Music Club had the State Music Club President, Miss Virginia Queen, to present the Parade of American Music Program.

But we said local music clubs were observing this. Do we in Hope have more than one music club? It may surprise some to learn that we do. Besides the group of adults known as the Friday Music Club, Hope is fortunate in having two Junior Music Clubs — the Music Makers and the Troubadours.

These organizations had their nucleus formed through the functioning of the Keyboard Club in 1948. That was the first junior music club in many years in Hope. It was sponsored by the Friday Music Club under the direction of its president, Mrs. B. W. Edwards. Names like Charlotte Ann Hobbs, Ann Barr, Beth Bridgers and Paula Raley remind us of the talented members of the Keyboard Club. Some continued their musical studies in college and later taught music.

In 1950 the Melody Makers was organized under the direction of Mrs. B. C. Hyatt. Mary Rallis Lewis, Carolyn Lewallen and Carolyn Story were members of this group who won superior awards in festivals. Ann Adams has continued her music at the University of Arkansas, even serving as piano accompanist for operatic presentations there. This club is no longer active.

The Music Makers was organized in 1952. One of its members Susan Davis, is a music major at Henderson State College and is the only sophomore student giving a recital this spring. She also won several honors while in high school. This is one of two current junior music clubs in Hope sponsored by the Friday Music Club under the direction of Mrs. Hyatt. It has 25 members.

The newest of the junior clubs in our town with 20 members is the Troubadours. Last year was its first year to be organized and it was well represented by eight or 10 members at the festival held in Hope in '59. This club is unique in that it includes two boys, Bill Land and Ronnie Jones among its active members.

Each February the Parade of American Music is sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs. Each club is asked to present a program by American composers. Last year the Music Makers and the Troubadours won the Award of Merit for their excellent programs. Their 1960 programs will be entered this year.

The aim of the clubs sponsored by the Friday Music Club is to encourage members in musical activities, to sponsor worthwhile musical events and to make the community more cultural minded.

Tennessee Holds a Man State Wants

TRENTON, Tenn. (AP)—Authorities kept M. W. Nunn in a jail cell today while they sorted fraud charges filed against him in five Arkansas cities.

Nunn was arrested yesterday at nearby Milan and brought to Gibson County Jail here. Sheriff W. R. Bradshaw picked him up on a warrant from Sheridan, Ark.

Nunn also is charged at Fort Smith, Ark., on seven false pretense counts, at Russellville, Ark., on two and at Harrison on one. Police at Little Rock have charged him with giving a Stuttgart, Ark. man a $2,000 bad check.

Authorities said the transaction in which Nunn faces charges in Ark. involves at least $60,000.

The Sheridan warrant charged Nunn with embezzling $15,000 in Brooks, Mo. The Democratic connection with operation of the Sheridan Research Corp., a firm in the 1958 general election, Nunn was supposed to set up to manufacture plastic dolls.

Bradshaw said Grant County Sheriff Ray Childress of Sheridan, Ark., was instrumental in locating Nunn after election is not eligible for in west Tennessee. Nunn also had Democratic nomination been sought in Texas.

Nunn is charged at Fort Smith with taking $2,500 from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pearson after promising to buy them a 100 per cent interest in a Hot Springs motel and with taking $3,000 worth of stock against him involve fraudulent Harvey G. Combs held approximately stock transactions.

Unhappy Pilot in a Happy Landing

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—For a few minutes today the pilot of a light plane didn't know what would happen if he tried to land at Adams Field.

He could not tell whether his landing gear was down. The instrument which shows the position of the gear had stuck.

The pilot notified the Federal Aviation Agency tower at Little Rock of his plight.

Tensely, persons on the ground watched the Piper Comanche circle the field. At their distance, it was hard to tell whether the landing gear was in the proper place. Then the faulty indicator started operating. It showed the equipment was working all right.

It was a happy landing.

Rejects Plea for an Early Rights Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) today rejected a plea from Senate leaders of both parties to permit an early vote on the first section of the administration's civil rights bill.

Russell said the Southern focus of the legislation are trying "to get the truth to the American people" in the face of what he called a carefully contrived political campaign to mislead the public about the South's treatment of Negroes.

As the Senate began another long session in the election-year battle, Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said he hoped a vote would be reached late tonight on the first section of the controversial bill.

"I do hope that we'll permit senators not only the right to register their views but also the right to register their votes," Johnson said.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the GOP leader, said the Republicans were ready, eager, and willing to vote.

Turning to Russell, leader of the Dixie forces, Dirksen asked if it would be possible to obtain an agreement fixing a time for voting on the first section of the bill. This section would make it a federal crime, punishable by a $10,000 fine or two years in jail, to seek by force or threats to obstruct court orders in school desegregation cases.

Russell said that he was not in a position to enter into any unanimous consent agreement fixing a time for a vote. He added that he doubted very much that he would be able to do so next week, when round-the-clock Senate sessions are planned.

Earlier senators on opposing sides said they thought it would take about a week of round-the-clock sessions to indicate how the tide was running in the bitter civil rights battle.

The nonstop sessions are planned for the start of the third week of debate in an effort to break Southern resistance and force action on the legislation.

Committee to Rule in Favor of Alford

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Democratic Committee today took action to insure that Rep. Dale Alford can try for office this year as a bona fide Democrat.

The committee adopted a resolution waiving, in the case of Alford, a state party rule which apparently would have barred the Little Rock eye doctor from seeking a Democratic nomination.

Alford ran as an independent when he unseated former Rep. Nunn in Brooks, Mo. The Democratic connection with operation of the Sheridan Research Corp., a firm in the 1958 general election, Nunn was supposed to set up to manufacture plastic dolls.

Bradshaw said Grant County Sheriff Ray Childress of Sheridan, Ark., was instrumental in locating Nunn after election is not eligible for in west Tennessee. Nunn also had Democratic nomination been sought in Texas.

Demonstrations Against U. S. in Argentina

By STANFORD B. BRADSHAW

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Security measures surrounding President Eisenhower's Argentine visit here were tightened today after about 500 Socialist demonstrators tore down U.S. flags in the heart of Buenos Aires.

The demonstrators burned one American flag and surged through the capital's streets Friday night after a political rally. They ripped down banners that had been hung from buildings in honor of the visiting U.S. chief of state.

U.S. Secret Service men and Argentine officials scurried about checking precautions as the President prepared to fly to the seaside resort of Mar del Plata where thousands of tourists in carnival mood were on hand to greet him.

Authorities said they did not expect any incident would spoil the welcome readied for the President in the fashionable water resort known as the "Pearl of the Atlantic." But they took no chances.

Precautions were taken against a fresh outbreak of Friday's Peronista demonstrations that flared during the resounding ovation accorded Eisenhower in the capital.

Despite scattered outbursts by diehard followers of ousted dictator Juan D. Peron, the Argentine welcome for Eisenhower was the most enthusiastic of his Latin American good-will tour.

Between 750,000 and a million persons lined the six-mile motorcycle route through Buenos Aires cheering the President.

In Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, major Brazilian cities he visited earlier, Eisenhower drew crowds of about a half a million.

Today's visit to Mar del Plata marked the first respite in the President's strenuous tour. The resort city has a year-round population of 350,000 but this is Argentina's summer season and there are more than 700,000 tourists in town.

After three hours at the resort, Eisenhower was to push on to the mountain lake resort of Bariloche for a weekend of relaxation and talks with Frondizi.

Drug Firms Told to Face Up to Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Pat McClellan (D-Tenn.) warned the pharmaceutical industry today to face up to the "bad and intolerable situation" of possibly dangerous misleading advertising claims for some of its products.

He said the pharmaceutical Manufacturers Assn. has a code of ethics covering this and other points, and that rigorous enforcement of the code "would be a good place to begin."

"If they do not do so," McClellan said, "I have no doubt that the Congress, or an agency of government, will do it for them."

McClellan then recessed indefinitely hearings at which his Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee is investigating pricing and other practices in the industry. He said it was impossible to go on under the present conditions which have forced late night and early morning sessions to avoid conflicts with the current overtime Senate sessions debating civil rights.

McClellan's statement followed testimony by Dr. Martin A. Seidell that he had resigned as a medical director for the pharmaceutical house of Charles Pfizer & Co. of New York, in protest against what he called its "perverted marketing attitudes," including some of its advertising.

Seidell now is associated medical director of Riker Laboratories, Northridge, Calif.

Seidell stuck to his criticism of some of the Pfizer advertising policies in the face of a denial by the company Thursday.

minately a score of proxies from the 57-member committee.

The committee elected William J. Smith, Little Rock lawyer, as its permanent secretary to succeed the late Frank E. Robins Jr. of Conway.

Smith was the choice of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who, in keeping with tradition, controls the committee.

Through a rule change, the committee postponed selection of Arkansas members of the Democratic National Committee and gave no indication whether the incumbents—Mrs. Jack Carnes of Camden and Paul Chambers of Little Rock—would be retained.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state meets today with selection of a new party secretary the principal matter on the agenda.

But a non-scheduled item of business is expected to draw more attention. This is an expected change in party rules to permit Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.) to seek re-nomination in the Fifth Congressional District.

Naming of a secretary to succeed the late Frank E. Robins Jr. of Conway should be routine, Gov. Orval E. Faubus yesterday said he would nominate William Smith of Little Rock, his legal advisor, for the post. "The committee usually gives rubber stamp approval to such nominations.

No major hitch is expected in the rule change, made necessary because Alford, as a write-in independent, defeated Democratic nominee Brooks Hays in the 1952 general election.

A party rule prohibits anyone who worked against a Democratic nominee from running as a party candidate in the next primary.

Alford was seated in Congress as a Democrat after some maneuvering in Washington.

The committee also was scheduled to set dates for the 1960 primaries, already set by law for July 26 and Aug. 9, and to name delegates to this fall's state convention.

'SPIRITUAL BEWILDERMENT'
BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The phrase "spiritual bewilderment" occurred recently in the report of a meeting of Jesuit college presidents at Boston near my home in Newton, Mass.

"The report said the presidents, realizing that in the 1960s 'the stress of education will be in science,' urged that 'balance must not be lost in a process which exists solely for the benefit of man himself.'

The report added:

"The astonishing conquest of matter, energy and space gives rise to a spiritual bewilderment in which man can lose his sense of purpose.

"It is all too evident that the American moral fabric is being severely strained by the material advances that have run ahead of our responsible use of them. 'The development of a human person at once morally mature and intellectually accomplished is the unchanging aim of Jesuit education.'

A Protestant, who might not share all aspects of Jesuit education, must nevertheless admire the unselfish devotion of those who in a consecrated spirit set themselves to the task of religion and education as they see it. I think, however, that many Protestant and Jewish educators, who sense these same conflicts, are equally devoted to the whole purpose of education.

It is true also, I believe, of many educators who do not fall in that religious category of Roman Catholics, Jews and Protestants. I believe, too, that the aims of many scientists are to promote and find a better basis for human life as well as a better material world.

The deeper tragedy that the Jesuit statement does not suggest is that a vast mass of people feel no "spiritual bewilderment" at all. They have no concern about the moral or spiritual values that constitute a sound basis for society.

Who are these, 'the millions,' with no such bewilderment? They are those whose aims, hopes and actions are wholly materialistic. They are the millions whose chief purpose in life is to entertain or be entertained. They are the millions of the shallowly educated and the illiterate, the drifting and the aimless who constitute an enormous undeveloped human field.

How to reach these is the greatest problem of religion and education — to make them feel so spiritually disturbed that they may be aroused to do something about it.

I don't know how Jesuit education is meeting that problem. My impression is that it operates chiefly on those who are spiritually disturbed. My own feeling is that to arouse spiritual bewilderment and to meet it, a great movement of evangelism is needed, far beyond such movements as they now exist.

Man Charged With Trying to Kill Wife

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Jozsef Kiss is standing trial here for a crime new to Hungary—trying to electrocute his wife.

The prosecution charges that Kiss, 42, a transport worker, saw in a Budapest slaughterhouse how pigs were stunned by electric shock before slaughter. He made an electric device, plugged it into the main circuit at his home, and attached it to his wife's temples as she slept.

Mrs. Kiss suffered third-degree burns and was hospitalized for six weeks. When she returned home she found her husband living in the apartment with another woman, the court was told Thursday.

Kiss maintained his wife had fainted while using an electric iron and burned her head.

The trial is continuing.

Mrs. Leonard Graham WMU Circle 2 Hostess

Ten members of WMU Circle 2 of the First Baptist Church met on Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Leonard Graham.

The opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Graham. The mission study on "Reaching The Rural Churches" was taught by Mrs. Harold Hines. Mrs. A. R. Underwood, chairman, presided over the business meeting and closed the meeting with prayer.

The hostess served sandwiches coffee and cookies.

meeting Monday.

"Go Fourth O Child of God" was the topic for the Worship Service and the scripture lesson was the 100th Psalm.

Topic for the missionary study was "The Union of South Africa." This was the second in a series of lessons on "Changing Africa."

An offering was taken for missions and the state meeting for the BWFF to be held in connection with the State Convention of Christian Churches in Arkansas at El Dorado on March 19-20 was discussed and plans made for some to attend.

The group enjoyed a potluck supper preceding the meeting. Mrs. J. C. Jordan surprised the group by serving cherry pie for dessert.

DOROTHY DIX

Never Say Die!

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I have been married 18 years. We got along real good for 16 years. My husband has been a diabetic three years. I am in a steel brace from back of neck to hips with a crippling disease and worked until eight months ago to pay for some land, but have not been able to build. My husband doesn't care whether we build or not. I put his name and mine on the deed. He doesn't appreciate anything any more. — Betty

Dear Betty: Yours is a complicated problem. Try not to take your husband's reactions too much to heart. Diabetics are difficult. In the face of these apparently insurmountable difficulties, make a superhuman effort to think constructively. You'll be surprised at the unexpected changes for the better which will suddenly come into your life.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I am 17 years old, and will graduate next spring. My boy friend, who lives in another state, wants me to marry him after I finish school. His parents want him to contribute $30 of his pay each week towards educating his brother, now a freshman in high school.

I feel any money he and I earn after we marry should be used in our own household. His parents have their home, car and furniture paid for. His daddy makes $400 a month. I feel that his parents are only telling him this to keep us from marrying.

My boy friend is 21. I think it is time he made his own decisions instead of letting his mother do it. I don't want a mother-in-law bossing our family.

I am from a small town. Do you think it would be wiser for me to work when I finish school rather than marry—L.L.J.

Dear L.L.J.: Your hunch is correct. I'm sure. The boy's friend's parents don't want their son to marry you. Thirty dollars a week is a preposterous sum for him to contribute toward his brother's education. How about the kid working his way through college? Where's his pride? You're off to a bad start if you tie that albatross around your neck. Get a job after you graduate. Maybe the boy friend will grow up. If he doesn't, go on with your own life.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My boy friend is in a higher

Bobcats Close Season Tonight With Fairview

By TEDDY JONES, JR.

The Hope High School Bobcats ring down the curtain on the local basketball conference season tonight at Jones Field House when they play host to the strong Fairview Cardinals.

Fairview led the conference for most of the season and only last week were dropped to second place by Snackover who took over the lead. The Cats have clinched third place in the 4A District.

At 7 p. m. the Hope B team will play the Cardinals B in a preliminary game.

The local Juniors were originally scheduled to play Fairview but both teams were entries in the State Junior Tournament held at Newport. Both were first round losers Hope to Benton and Fairview to Harrison.

Hope's Juniors returned home via train at 2 p. m. Friday.

Next week will be the biggest week in local basketball history when Hope plays host to the State B-Boys tournament. The city has hosted two prior state girl events but this will be the first chance to play host to a Arkansas Athletic Association sponsored boys state tournament.

Interest is always high in the B events, composed mostly of the state's smaller schools. These schools generally play a fast fireball interesting type game and spectators support an interest is always high.

Representatives from all over the state will flock to Hope next week.

AF Trying to Calm Manual Controversy

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, buffeted between two groups of critics, is trying to calm the controversy into which a training manual has thrust it.

First a major church organization protested sharply statements in the manual that Communists had infiltrated some of the nation's churches.

The Air Force apologized, disavowed the statements, and withdrew the manual. That brought criticism from others who contended the statements were true, and who said the Air Force should have stuck by them.

The upshot apparently is that the manual will be re-issued without using names of churches or churchmen. Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) quoted Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp as saying that Thursday at a closed hearing of the House Committee on U-S American Activities.

Walter reported "the secretary said he had no reason to believe

Charges Sailors Held Sex Party

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — Seventeen U.S. sailors are on trial on charges of taking liquor and women of "questionable character" aboard a small Navy transport in Formosa last October for a sex party.

The Navy refused to disclose their names. When newsmen protested, a Navy spokesman said "publication of names at this time could be detrimental to the interests of the men concerned in their respective homelands."

It was the first time in several years that a branch of the armed forces refused to identify personnel formally charged and on trial.

THE STORY: Phil Bokker has been ordered to leave Raytown by the town marshal. However, Phil gets off the stage a mile out of town and makes his way back on foot toward the home of Bill Grayson, one man who might clear him of charges that he fought with guerrillas during the Civil War.

Chapter 4

Bokker was still standing there, when a revolver cracked. A man's scream split the night air another gun banged and another The dogs went into a veritable frenzy of barking.

Bokker was tearing the Navy gun from his waistband as the horse came galloping toward him. He took a step to the right, cried out, "Hold it!"

Flame and thunder lanced at Bokker. A bullet tore through his coat sleeve and he thrust out his Navy gun and fired. The horse coming directly at him was suddenly riderless.

The animal shied away from Bokker, cut across a field on the left of the road, Bokker, running forward, skidded to an abrupt halt. Another horse was galloping down the road, away from Bokker and Grayson's house.

A woman's voice cried out near Grayson's house.

Bokker searched the road for the man at whom he had fired. He saw him lying in a huddle, moved cautiously toward him.

"I've got you covered," he said carefully.

The figure on the ground did not move, made no response. Bokker knew that the man would not move again.

He got to his feet and went forward. The woman was still calling to the dogs, quieting them. When the racket finally died out, Bokker walked into the pale light cast by the light inside the house. He saw Bill Grayson lying on the ground and the woman came toward him, a carbine in her hands.

"Throw up your hands, you murderer!" she spat at him.

Bokker's hands went up.

The frightened voice of a Negro called from the house. "X you need me, Miz Grayson?"

"Yes," replied the woman grimly over her shoulder. She moved forward, thrust the muzzle of the carbine within a foot of Bokker's stomach. "Drop that gun!"

Alaska Planes Can't Land

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four Alaska National Guard B-57s were scheduled to land at Little Rock Municipal Airport this morning after a flight from Alaska where the guardsmen have been on maneuvers. But they couldn't put down—too much snow.

The planes finally landed at Little Rock Air Force Base.

WEST END, Grand Bahama — (NEA) — How will fiberglass boats stand up in the tropics?

A special test is now going on in the clear green waters of the new Grand Bahama Club. Anchored offshore are five small 16-foot day sailers of the Rebel class and a larger cruising 26-footer.

All are constructed of fiberglass reinforced plastic. All have already proved successful in the northern United States, where they are only in the water part of the

AMERICA AFLOAT

He wanted a location which would appeal to vacationing boatmen and found it at Grand Bahama, 80 miles east of Florida on an island once popular with pirates and rumrunners. Visitors can cruise across the Gulf Stream in good weather or fly across in an hour from Miami.

Because bama does not grow in the clear Bahama waters, Robinson has not had to paint the bottoms of his boat, and only uses anti-fouling paint in the slot where the centerboard retracts. Tropical sunlight seems to have no effects on the boats, and he hopes to expand the activity to other islands.

"Visiting sailors go trolling for sport fish under jibail alone, anchor for skin diving, or sail out to small deserted islands," Robinson reports. "Now it's possible to 'go native' in a boat made of the most modern of new materials."

AMERICA AFLOAT

"You can tell that to the sheriff! Mose, tell Donny to ride into town and fetch out Sheriff Thomas, then find a rope and come back here."

Five minutes later, his hands tied tightly behind his back, Bokker was herded into the house by a giant Negro and the woman, who kept him covered with a rifle; the newly widowed Mrs. Grayson.

She was not more than 22, a fine-looking woman with hair the color of dark taffy. She was wearing a long robe over her underclothes, but in spite of the loose robe, Bokker could make out her figure. It was excellent.

She gestured with the gun to a chair. Bokker hesitated, then seated himself awkwardly.

Mose, who had taken possession of Bokker's Navy gun, sniffed at the muzzle. "Gun fired," he said laconically.

"I fired at the man who was with Captain Grayson," Bokker declared. "He came at me — shooting. Where's Captain Grayson's sister?"

Mrs. Grayson regarded Bokker carelessly for a moment, then her eyes narrowed. "Bill has — had — no sister."

Bokker nodded. "Then it was you who came to my hotel room this evening?"

Mrs. Grayson inhaled sharply. She took a sudden step toward him, her hand drawn back to slap him. Then she caught herself.

"I forgot — you're a Yankee."

AMERICA AFLOAT

Lige Thomas entered the Grayson kitchen 20 minutes later. Charr Mechem and another man were with him, and Bokker could hear several more outside.

Lige Thomas came up to where Bokker sat in the kitchen chair, his hands behind him. "So you got off the stage?"

Charr Mechem licked his lips. "You'd think he'd had enough."

His right fist flicked out and crashed against Bokker's jaw, knocking him and the chair to the floor. Bokker struggled up to his knees, licked away a trickle of blood that seeped from the corner of his mouth. Mechem stepped forward to smash Bokker again, but the sheriff gestured him back. "He's got to talk, Charr."

Bokker got to his feet. "It's easy enough to hit a man when his hands are tied."

"I can lick you any day of the week," growled Charr Mechem, "an' twice on Sunday."

Lige Thomas said, "You got a rough tongue, Bokker. Now, let's hear you use it to talk yourself out of this."

Bokker said, "I wanted to ask Captain Grayson some questions."

AMERICA AFLOAT

"You asked him enough in Raytown."

"I didn't get any answers."

Thomas scowled. "So now you got a murder against you."

"I didn't kill Grayson,"

The sheriff turned to Mrs. Grayson. "You caught him with a gun in his hand."

There was a slight hesitation before she answered. "Yes."

"There was a man with Captain Grayson," Bokker said doggedly. "And a third man was waiting for them outside the house."

"He's the one who shot Bill!" Thomas cried skeptically. "This third man?"

The schedule of Solunar periods as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Our Symbol

One of our most treasured relics is the Liberty Bell. It is so-called because it was rung on July 8, 1776 to summons the citizenry for the terse announcement that the Declaration of Independence had been adopted. Today, it remains the greatest symbol of a nation free from tyranny in government and intolerance in religion

... that nation is America.

But one fact often overlooked is that when the historic bell was originally cast its makers turned to the Bible, to Leviticus, for the words inscribed around its contour: "Proclaim Liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." What a beginning! What a heritage! What a privilege to be a son or daughter of Freedom's Land. What a blessing to be an American.

How great is our Symbol!!!

THE NINETY AND NINE WERE SAFE: - BUT ONE!?

Some Census Questions Confidential

Woman To Woman
By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A niece of nephew of Uncle Sam soon will be knocking on your door and asking a lot of questions.

Some of the questions posed by the census taker will center about "confidential" family finances.

Under census law, all persons 18 years of age and over are required to answer official census questions about themselves and members of their household.

But the same law provides protection, specifying that personal information collected by Uncle Sam's nose-counters must be kept confidential. Penalties are provided for violation of their requirement.

It is quite likely that the person who knocks on your door during April and prys into your business will be a woman—perhaps one of your neighbors. Sixty-four percent of the census takers in 1950 were women.

But you'll be hearing from the Census Bureau before the official enumerator shows up at your house.

Coordinated Steps

The modus operandi of the census involves a series of coordinated steps. The first step will be taken in the latter part of March when an advance census report form is mailed to every household in the nation.

You will be instructed to assemble on these forms the answers to basic questions about persons under your roof—and about the dwelling in which you reside. Uncle Sam wants you to have these forms filled in by the time the census enumerator calls.

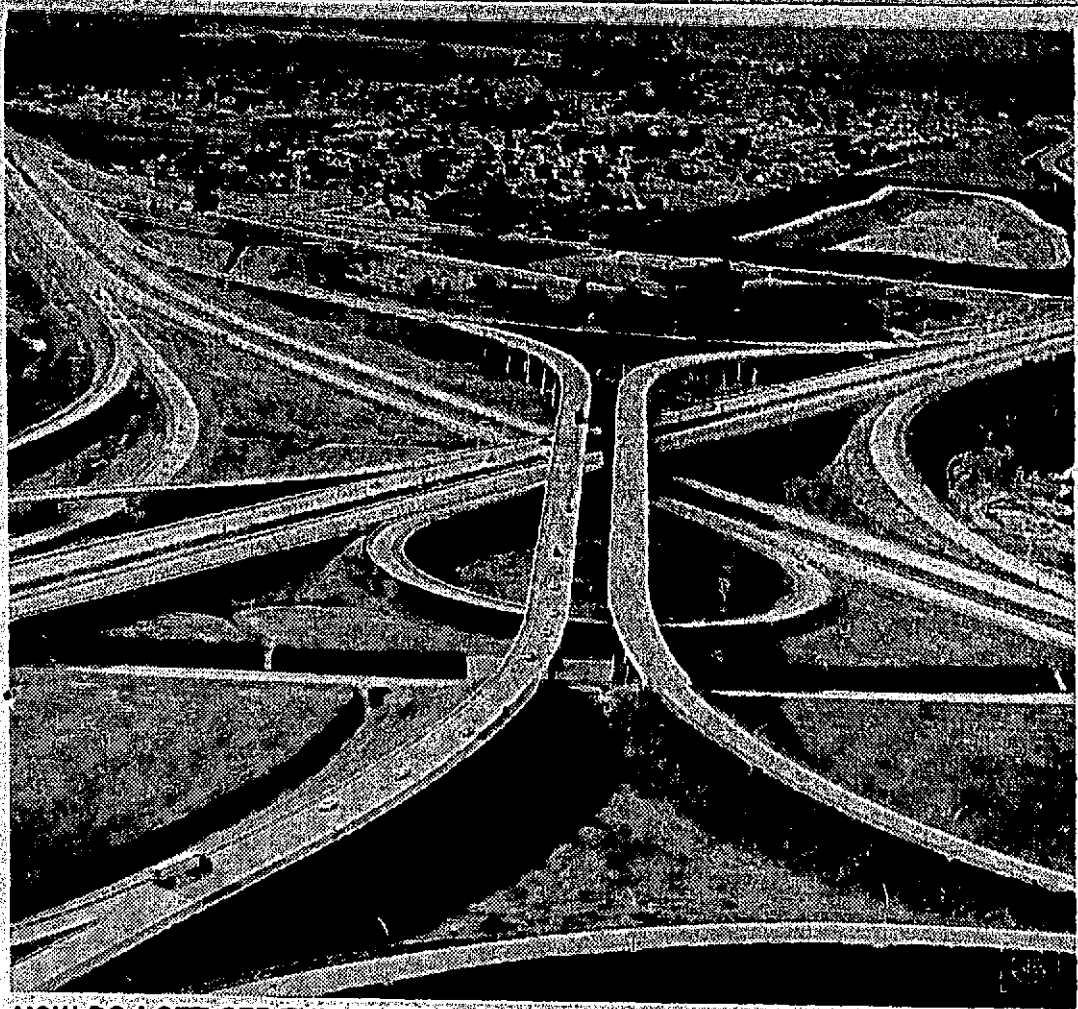

At every fourth house, the official nose-counter will leave a census household questionnaire. It asks the householder to report in more detail and mail the completed questionnaire—in an addressed, postage-free envelope—to the local census district office within three days.

The questionnaire you receive by mail in advance will ask that you record the following information about all persons under your roof: Name, Address, Relationship to head of household, Sex, Color or race, Month and year of birth, and Marital status.

Expectations Enumerated
The questions about housing will center about the type of living quarters—say house, apartment, trailer; on characteristics of housing—number of bedrooms and bathrooms, for example.

In one of every four households, questions about possessions will center about cars, television, radio, washers and dryers, freezers and other appliances.

The U.S. Census Bureau anticipates that the newest census—the nation's 18th—will show: An unprecedented gain in the total number of married couples; a decline

Marilyn Gets Boost From Leading Man

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, criticized by her former directors and co-star gets a boost from her current leading man, Yves Montand.

But of course, you say? Why wouldn't the French star say some gallant words for the fabulous blonde he is appearing with in "Lol's Make Love?"

Yes, but Montand is a no-nonsense guy who fought his way up from the Marseilles docks and the French music halls. He speaks his mind as he weaves his way through a new and difficult language.

"I like Marilyn very much," he commented as he waited for her to arrive for a scene. "She has it up here (tapping his skull). But more important, she has it here (indicating the heart). Ah, that is very important for an actor. Many actors are very intelligent, but if they lack heart, they cannot be successful for long."

"Look at Marilyn. She has been top star for seven years. Yes, she has very nice figure, from both directions. But so do other girls, and they do not last."

"Yes, I have to wait on the set for Marilyn. I sit around among the workers and listen to them talk. It is good for me to learn English that way. I do not mind to wait. Because when Marilyn comes, she is prepared. Yesterday we do a scene of 10 pages. We do it 8-10-12 times. Each time she is fresh like it was the first time."

"Marilyn is a girl with a great many fears. She needs understanding, someone to calm her fears. I think she can be a very fine actress."

Montand is a well-tailored, craggy-faced man with the build of a lumberjack. Italian-born and reared in France, he combines the persuasion and charm of both nationalities.

Montand finds Hollywood filming slower than in France, likes it that way. "Here you take time to make sure everything is right because you are thinking how the film will look everywhere in the world," he observed. "In France, we do not even have time to rehearse. We go right in the scene and shoot it."

Church Group Turns to Labor, Politics

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The National Council of Churches turns from criticism of Air Force manuals to a discussion of child labor, Mexican farm labor and politics today.

The general board of the council closes a two-day meeting.

The board Wednesday approved a resolution asking why and how the Air Force permitted publication of a training manual which included charges of Communist infiltration into some American churches.

The resolution attacked the manual, demanded material in another Air Force manual issued in 1955 be deleted; and that a full explanation of the whole matter be made public by the Air Force.

"When this has been accomplished the National Council of Churches of Christ will consider the Air Force incident concluded," the resolution said.

Defense Facts May Never Be Known

By BEN PRICE

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—You have yet to be told the facts about this nation's defenses in relation to those of the Soviet Union and it is unlikely that you ever will be.

At the moment there is a fierce debate in and out of Congress over whether U.S. defenses are lagging.

President Eisenhower has said our military posture is adequate. In general the Republicans agree, the Democrats disagree.

What you are being given is an assortment of opinions based on individual interpretations of facts which are top secret.

A democracy supposedly functions best when the people are told the whole truth and allowed to make up their minds. This theory collapses when applied to military operation.

The military contend that to tell the people the whole truth would also inform the enemy. Thus, in the final analysis the only way the people can ever learn whether defenses are adequate is when they are tested in actual conflict.

Certain privileged congressmen and assorted high ranking members of the executive branch are given briefings on what intelligence officers believe to be the enemy's capabilities.

The defense debate arises from interpretation of the known facts and the intelligence estimates.

Intelligence work has been described as a field in which 5 per cent of the information is drawn from careful study of unclassified sources, 3 per cent from semi-covert sources and about 2 per cent from secret agents.

You may ask, then, why isn't the 5 per cent made public? The military argument is that to tell the enemy what we know is to expose either our ignorance and ineptitude, or allow him to evaluate our intelligence operations.

The enemy will know what information came from unclassified sources, what could have been obtained only from secret agents.

If the enemy learns we are overestimating his strength he may be encouraged to gamble; that is, indulge in a bit of international blackmail.

If we are underestimating his strength and tailoring our strength to cope with what we believe to be his weak potential, he may be encouraged to attack.

In a war, intelligence officers collect information on the enemy's capabilities and leave the matter of interpretation to the commanding general. If the information is faulty the general's deduction concerning enemy intentions may be equally faulty.

Though the Japanese were clearly capable of attacking Pearl Harbor, the United States guessed wrong on their intentions in 1941.

In World War II the Germans were believed incapable of attacking through the Ardennes Forest. The Battle of the Bulge cost the Allies 80,000 casualties.

The U.S. decision to advance to the Yalu River during the Korean War was based on the belief the Chinese Communists would not intervene.

In this thermonuclear age, a wrong guess could easily be fatal.

While the facts are not available to the public, the current debate seems to be based on differences of opinion over whether the United States really is stronger than the Soviet Union and an interpretation of Soviet intentions.

Your opinion will have to be based at least partly on the answer to one question: Are you more inclined to believe Democrats or Republicans?

Mystery Sub Fades

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The Argentine navy has given up trying to trap a mystery submarine many Argentines doubt ever existed.

Navy Secretary Gaston Clement Wednesday night announced an end to search operations in Golfo Nuevo, where the navy had said the sub was hiding. Clement said no contact had been made with the intruder for several days.

An all-out search was launched after ships reported detecting a submarine in the south coast Gulf Jan. 30. The bulk of Argentina's naval forces blockaded the 20-by-40-mile gulf and dropped depth charges repeatedly.

More Bodies Recovered

BERLIN (AP)—Four more bodies were recovered today from the fire-filled Karl Marx Coal Mine in East Germany. Almost no hope was held for 75 miners still trapped. A gas explosion touched off a fire Monday while 172 men were working 3,520 feet underground. Fifty-one miners were dragged out alive, but two of these died later. The known dead total 49.

TV Shows Go to Short Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Your favorite TV or radio station may erupt soon with a series of short commercials telling you what a dandy little public service outfit it is. It is part of a new project to help solve broadcasting problems.

The Radio and Television Executives Society has published a public relations plan for the industry designed its president says, to get the picture back in focus.

It proposes, quite simply, using radio and television half-hour station breaks 10 or 20 times a day for a series of three to five-second messages. Each would tell briefly what the station has done during the past year for its audience.

RTES suggests the individual station staffs write their own messages, but its outline makes some suggestions:

"This is WXXX which last year brought you 702 hours of first rate musical entertainment," or "which last year devoted 104 hours free of charge to public service programs serving 70 different worthy causes in this community."

The idea, as outlined by RTES President Frank Pellegrin, is to go directly to the public to combat what he calls a campaign by "powerful forces" against broadcasting. Pellegrin mentions specifically 40 bills introduced in Congress which would "control, regulate, punish or circumscribe broadcasting in various ways," and "organized and unorganized competitors and their representatives."

Although an RTES spokesman said the plan had been approved by its board of directors, there is considerable opposition to it in many broadcasting quarters. One network, for instance, is reported to have instructed its affiliated stations to ignore the plan.

Recommended tonight: Playhouse 90, CBS, 8 to 9:30 — "Cruel Day," with Van Heflin, Raymond Massey and Peter Lorre, a drama about French Algeria; "Four for Tonight," NBC, 10-11—four stars: Beatrice Lillie, Cyril Ritchard, Tony Randall and Tammy Grimes; Steel Hour, CBS, 10-11—first of a two-part drama, "The Women of Hadley," with Cedric Hardwicke, Richard Kiley, Mary Astor, Rita Gam.

Took Dough to Make Carol the Champ

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Papa Heiss had to mix and bake a mountain of dough to make his daughter figure skating queen of the Olympics, and today he had no regrets.

"I am very happy and proud," said Ed Heiss, a little German immigrant, after he had received the news at his modest Ozone Park home in Queens. "We have worked hard for this and now it is here."

Tuesday in Squaw Valley, Calif. Carol Heiss, 20, the baker's daughter, gave the United States its first gold medal by winning the women's figure skating championship in the Winter Olympic Games.

"This was for Mother," Carol said in her dressing room after ward. "I wish she could have been here to help share it."

Then she added: "And Daddy, too."

Four years ago, knowing that his wife Marie was dying of cancer, Ed Heiss shook all the coins out of the family sugar jar and

Mrs. Heiss' final gift was the chance to see her daughter, then 16, win an Olympic crown. Carol lost a heartbreaking hair's breadth decision to Tenley Albright of Newton Centre, Mass.

Carol promised then that she would win a crown in the Olympics. Mrs. Heiss died a few months later without seeing the dream come true.

Papa Heiss didn't get to see it either—except on television later. "I had to stay home and work," he said, "and, besides, I had to take care of the other two children."

They are Nancy, 18, and Bruce, 16, both accomplished skaters.

"It's true I have worked very hard to give Carol and the other children lessons and to keep them in school," said the 5-foot-8, 128-pound Heiss, "but Carol owes me nothing. She did it all herself. And we are proud of her."

Carol once confided to friends: "If I were to offer Daddy any money for what he's done for me, he would be insulted. I can only repay him by winning an Olympic gold medal."

Heiss himself said, "I got money from working. If Carol made $100,000 a year I wouldn't touch a penny of it."

Because she had a love for it, Carol began ice skating at the Brooklyn Ice Palace when she was 6. She showed aptitude immediately. Later she started taking instruction.

This cost money. Papa Heiss paid for it out of his meager wages; Mama Heiss made Carol's paid. Tuesday he collected.

Facts About Living in Arkansas

By BOB HARING
Associated Press Staff Writer

Mrs. Louis F. Haven Jr. of Forest City paints Southern scenes—the traditional sights hundreds of Southerners grew up with and delight in recalling.

But this sort of art has its problems. She explains that while a lot of folks can recall watching a mule-drawn wagon haul cotton from the field, not many today can produce such a vehicle for her use in a painting.

Where can you find any mules? she asks. "People of the South have grown up with these scenes. Cotton chopping and picking, sowing and harvest, with plenty of mules, plows and wagons. Many of us think of them just as they used to be. But try to find a mule, a wagon or a cotton shed!"

She has discovered, by the way, that paintings of such fondly remembered scenes are pretty rare items. A picture titled "Deep South," which she exhibited at the Little Gallery in Memphis, was a success by Dr. Milton Howell of Gloucester, Minn., a former Mississippian.

Mrs. Haven is painting another cotton field scene now, called "Sunday Go-To Meeting." That's why she had to find the mule and wagon. Fox "Deep South," she said, showing a fifth wheel and double trees was "just about the hardest part of painting a cotton field landscape."

You've heard about the Texan who had to quit farming because he couldn't get water—every time he drilled he struck oil.

Well, Don Blair, who lives in the Gilbert community in northwest Arkansas, is wondering if maybe there wasn't something to that story.

Seems Blair hired a contractor to drill a water well. At 600 feet he struck oil. He went another 10 feet and there was so much oil he quit drilling.

Oh, it wasn't a gusher. But the contractor drew 60 gallons of water out and drained a half-barrel of oil from it.

Blair's farm is about 150 miles from the nearest Arkansas oil field and about 45 miles north of the closest natural gas producer.

He's asked a geologist to tell him whether to try again for water or go after oil to start with next time.

"Mr. Fort Smith of 1960" has to be a pretty special guy. The Heart Fund, which sponsors the contest in connection with its fund drive, set out these qualifications:

"Candidates may be ugly, handsome, attractive or anywhere in-between."

Which pretty well covers the ground.

Okay, you Arkansans gal! Let's see some of that "cooking like mother used to do."

Not for this space, but for George Purvis. He's chief of the Game and Fish Department's information-education division and he wants to put together a booklet on "Cooking Arkansas Game and Fish."

Purvis would like to get all those old favorite receipts for catfish, quail, etc., which are stored in the kitchen cabinets and memories of Arkansas women. There's no prize but credit will be given on original receipts.

But that doesn't include any receipts for rabbit stew which begins:

Manager Is Relieved as Henry Signs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — General Manager John McHale of the Milwaukee Braves breathed a sigh of relief Monday as slugger Henry Aaron came into the fold for 1960.

With the signing of the National League batting champion the contract situation brightened considerably for McHale. He has been the target for the ire of players who claim they weren't offered what they are worth.

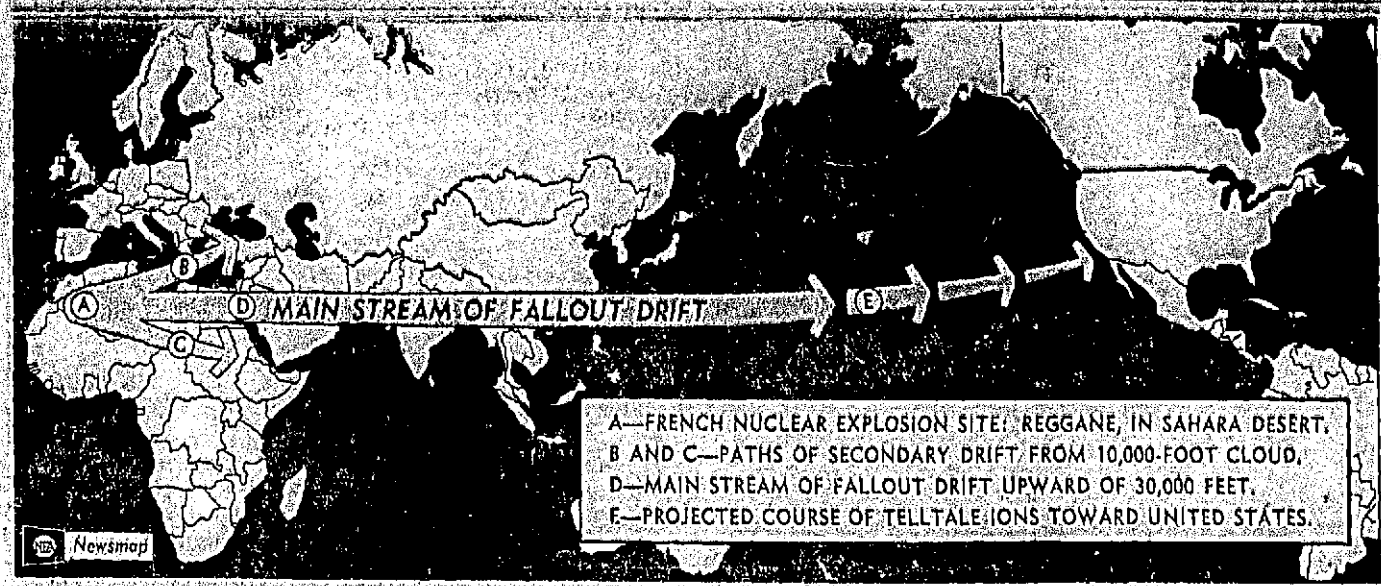

And indications are that at least for the present Aaron, who hit .355 last season, is the highest paid member of the team. He received an estimated $35,000 last year and was pushing for a raise, which he apparently got.

McHale still has 12 Braves to sign. They include Lew Burdett, Warren Spahn, Johnny Logan, Joey Jay, Bob Rush, Wes Covington, Juan Pizarro, Joe Adcock, Bob Avila, Felix Mantilla and Chuck Lau.

Burdett had the contract pot boiling recently when he returned his contract to McHale and said he wouldn't sign for what he was offered until Milwaukee's stadium froze over. Similar sentiments were expressed by other players.

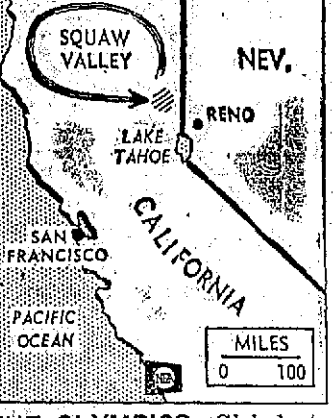

McHale insists, however, that the Braves should have won the pennant last year. He says this has to be a determining factor in what salaries will be.

WORLD GETS DRIFT OF FRENCH NUCLEAR TEST—Mapped, above, are initial courses and probable projections of how the world's winds will carry fallout particles from France's first experiment in nuclear detonation in the Sahara Desert. The nuclear device, rated as being in the 20-kiloton range, was barely powerful enough for monitoring world-

Of more immediate import: political repercussions as nervous nations protested admission of a new "member" to the select "atomic club" roster of United States, Britain and U.S.S.R.; and added material for hassling at Geneva over nuclear bans on a world-wide basis.

Competition Ahead of the Treasury

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Savers are still in the saddle and the U. S. Treasury is coming off second best in its competition with other forms of investment for their business.

Few think that interest rates are likely to drop significantly or that easy money is likely to replace tight for some time. So the rivalry is still unabated.

To halt the increase in redemptions of Series E and G Savings Bonds and the drop in their sales, a House committee is proposing to eliminate the legal limit on the amount of interest the Treasury can pay to holders.

But the President already has lifted their payments by varying degrees across the country. Some being paid. Yet the Treasury has made no move to do so. Instead it is planning a drive to get employers to step up promotion of payroll savings plans in their plants.

The argument is that, higher interest rates elsewhere or not the Savings Bond is still the safest risk in the nation, especially for the little investor.

The Treasury has power to lift these rates now because last year Congress raised the rate limit to 4 1/4 from its former 3 3/4 per cent. The Treasury then set the present 3 per cent rate, hoping that would halt redemptions and increase sales.

But last month sales trailed the year-ago figure again, while redemptions topped it.

The lure to savers from other sources is just too tempting. Mutual savings banks and many commercial banks have lifted the rates they pay depositors. Savings and loan associations have lifted their payments by varying on the West Coast go as high as 4 1/4 per cent.

Many bonds yield five per cent or more and the Treasury itself went after the individual saver with a highly successful five per cent offer.

Yields have gone so high because money has been kept tight to discourage a new outburst of inflation, and credit often has been hard to come by.

The money market eased in the first weeks of the year, as it usually does. But there has been some stiffening of interest rates in recent days. Demand for business loans finally has begun to rise again. That helps keep money tight.

Fears of further inflation have been considerably allayed. But few expect the money managers to loosen the credit strings much unless another recession begins taking shape.

The West Coast's offering of highest interest rates doubtless reflects the need for funds in fast-growing communities. And that is

Technology Progress in Comedy Too

Television in Review
By FRED DANZIG
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — In comedy, as in industry, technology means progress.

Bob Hope, an old pro at retelling his assembly line comedy with topical references, showed off the latest 1960-model pic in the face joke on Monday night's NBC-TV special. Eschewing the time-honored butt-obliterate cussard pic, Hope lathered Wally Cox's impassive puss by using a modern Aerosol pressure can. Slower, yes, but neater. So much for applied science.

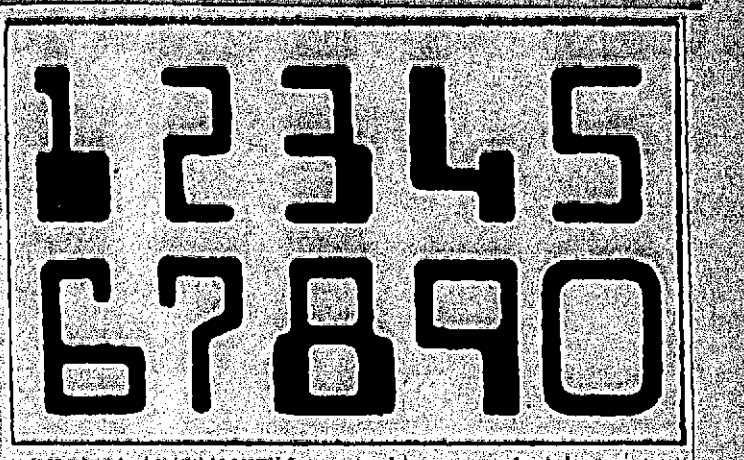

Hope's hour came up with the usual number of laughs, but basically uninspired comedy dominated. Hope's opening monologue tossed in a number of barpoons as he ranged over Jack Paar's crying and President Eisenhower's flying. The line I liked most by TV writers and actors, Hope said, "but there's nothing to worry about until the horses go on strike."

Wally Cox perked things up with a nutty, wild rendition of the song, "Running Bear." Later Hope presented some magazine awards to a group of motion picture players, including Ghislaine "best foreign actress,"

Burglars Take Savings

Widespread use of the new look in figures is forecast for the future.

I'll have you know, and he was refreshingly irreverent as he dolled out the hardware. The recipients, of course, were quite stuffy. The three sketches had one thing in common: Weak endings. They involved politics, bullfighters and golf. The first skit saw Bob elected president. In the second Cox, as "El Pussy Cat," won GINGER ROGERS from rival matador, "El Chicken," played by Hope. The final skit saw Hope go off with a sick joke after his golfing goof caused a major traffic accident. Hope's skills rarely rise above the commonplace and Monday night was no exception.

Steve Allen's campaign to elevate the quality of TV — even if it has to do it himself — saw him devote time on his NBC-TV comedy show to G.B. Shaw's "Devil's Disciple." Labor Unions Stuck in Mud of Own Problems

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions are in a slough. By their own appraisal they're stuck in the mud of their own unsolved problems.

The disturbing thing — if there is value in some measure of balance between labor and management in America — is that organized labor's leaders see their influence dwindling and don't quite know what to do about it.

Their membership is slipping. They still tolerate strength-sapping feuding between unions. They say employers are giving them an awful kicking around. They claim both political parties are so conservatively dominated that organized labor is practically a political orphan.

That is the agonizing analysis of the state of organized labor by union leaders themselves at a recent series of winter meetings. They are working on all the problems, but in a sort of half-hearted way that lacks the old crusading spirit.

Take organizing. When the rival AFL and CIO merged in late 1955, one goal was a giant revival of organizing activity.

Yet after four years of merger the AFL-CIO, with an estimated 13½ million members, reported the other day that union membership hasn't kept up with the growth of the labor force. About six workers out of 10 are still outside the union fold.

What's worse, from the union standpoint, is that the complexion of the work force is rapidly changing. New machinery is reducing the number of production of "blue collar" workers, while the ranks of technical or "white collar" workers are steadily growing.

Union organizing is still geared to the production worker and the craftsman. The unions realize they must use different techniques to attract the "white collar" wage earner. But they haven't yet found a successful formula.

New labor law restrictions, the unions say, have hobbled their traditional organizing methods. They are still running into antagonistic public opinion resulting from the labor racket scandals. And in these times of relative prosperity workers are not too receptive to organizing.

Despite all its troubles, the merged AFL-CIO is sticking together. Many of the rival leaders are still distrustful of each other. But they feel more secure together than divided.

Much of the merged organization's strength and resources are frittered away in internal scraping. Fuzzy jurisdictional rules dividing the types of work the members of each union are supposed to perform are constantly being crossed with consequent retaliation.

The AFL-CIO has been working on various plans for peaceful settlement of these internal disputes, but none have felled.

Employers, perhaps fearful the merged AFL-CIO would become more powerful than it has turned out to be so far, have tended to close ranks and stiffen their resistance to union demands.

Labor leaders point, as examples of this, to the recent lengthy steel and meatpacking industry strikes. Employers in the railroad and airline industries have built up big strike insurance or mutual aid funds.

Concern over a worsening labor-management relations climate led George Meany, AFL-CIO president, to sponsor a high-level conference of employers and union chiefs.

Eisenhower said he favored the idea, and such sessions are likely to take place in the coming weeks. But observers are doubtful the meetings will succeed. One of the reasons is union labor's admitted relatively weak position on the current economic scene.

Indian Gets Bum Break in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is the American Indian getting a bum break from Hollywood? Nineteen tribal chiefs think so. So does today's most successful screen Indian.

Recently 19 chiefs of Oklahoma tribes sent letters to the President, the secretary of the interior, the FCC chairman, Oklahoma congressmen and others decrying the way Indians are portrayed by the film makers. They drew, heavily support from Michael Ansara.

Mike is no more Indian than Danny Thomas. Like Danny, his forebears came from the tiny country of Lebanon (by sheer coincidence, Mike was reared in Lebanon, N.H.).

He was a dramatic actor, who played in the movie "Julius Caesar," enacted Judas in "The Robe." But his broad face and 15th Judicial District, composed big build made him ideal for Indian roles. He was chosen out of 100 to portray the famous chief Cochise in the TV series, "Broken Arrow." Now he is starring as the full-blooded Indian who is U.S. marshal in another series, "Law of the Plainsman."

Says Ansara: "I agree the Indians have been treated badly in

Spa Jury Calls Two Witnesses

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The Garland County Grand Jury has subpoenaed three witnesses in a session tomorrow.

Foreman Joe McRae said H. H. Chancellor, a county road commissioner; Myron Smith, a bookkeeper for the road department, and Paul Goodwin, a lumber dealer, would appear.

The jury has been conducting a board investigation into many phases of county and city affairs. There was no indication of the reason these witnesses were called.

movies and TV, just as they were treated badly in history.

"With the advent of the Western film, the Indian became a stereotype as the villain. I think it's wrong. I even object to the childhood game of cowboys and Indians, because it means the Indians are automatically the villains."

Ansara agrees with the Oklahoma chiefs in their proposal that the way to counteract the labels against the Indians is to present a TV series depicting their way of life.

"I would like to see a series that would deal with the Indians as human beings," said the actor.

Court Paid Bill

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Dorothy Merceready of Plainfield didn't find sitting on a murder jury for six weeks, but she had to board her pet cocker spaniel in a kennel because the panel was locked up every night.

The court ordered the bill paid.

Solved Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department thinks it has solved the mystery of the mystery satellite. It probably is part of a Discoverer rocket that was supposed to come back to earth but didn't.

The department said Tuesday it came to this conclusion after continuing study by Navy and Air Force tracking stations. The existence of the silent satellite, tumbling in a nearly polar orbit, was announced Feb. 3.

the Senate Temperance Committee approved a local option liquor bill. The legalization bill, which will be the first in years to reach the floor in either house, was approved in committee by a 4-2 vote.

Spring brings with it the prospect of fresh air, sunshine and much-needed exercise. It's the ideal time for a bicycle picnic, one way to combine your exercise with fun. But remember, a picnic doesn't mean an opportunity to wear out your old clothes or look your worst. Take along a scarf to protect your hair from the wind (left). Wear a divided skirt or Bermuda shorts for bike riding. And be sure you take along comb, lipstick and pocket mirror. Make sure that your picnic lunch (center) is both imaginative and hearty. It might be a good idea to have a snack along for later in the afternoon. Food can easily be carried in a basket or thermos bag on the bicycle. And it's back to the bikes (right) on a leafy lane for the kind of exercise that helps to trim thighs and get a girl into shape for the beach days ahead.

Two Methods of Treating a Headache

By BEM PRICE
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are two methods of treating a headache. You can use drugs to suppress the pain or you can tackle the underlying cause.

The current debate over the adequacy of U.S. defenses seems to be concerned with nothing more than temporary relief from pain.

For the one defense issue seems to be: Is the administration's reluctance to increase military spending reducing this nation to a second-class power?

Broadly speaking, the Republicans hold that defense spending is adequate, while the Democrats take an opposite view.

Apparently lost in this election year argument is the possibility that the United States is spending enough money, but is not spending it wisely. Why?

From the time men first employed sticks and stones in battle, new weapons have introduced in warfare so slowly it became an axiom that each new war was fought with weapons developed into in the last.

That axiom no longer applies. It is true that long-range missiles were introduced by the Germans in World War II. The United States introduced nuclear weapons.

But there is no one alive who has any first-hand knowledge of a war in which missiles would deliver thermonuclear warheads at 16,000 miles per hour.

All the military experience accumulated over 5,000 years of recorded history is now obsolescent, if not altogether obsolete, where this new weapon is concerned.

Yet each participant in the current political defense debate must rely on military men, the supposed experts, for guidance. Each can turn up a military man who can support his point of view.

And that points up the underlying cause of the headache. The United States is trying to

Hysteria of Filmland Is Drawing Near

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It is 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Thirty reporters are milling in the lobby of the Academy Theater in Beverly Hills, as only reporters can mill.

They discuss a variety of things, but mainly the No. 1 topic in Hollywood: The announced actors strike. A few of them get impatient and climb the stairs leading to the academy library. More milling and impatient waiting.

Finally, the library door swings open. Each reporter grabs a sheet of papers. Those with deadlines head for a long table laden with typewriters and phones. Cameras whir and click. Writing machines clack. Academy bigwigs beam as the news goes out to the world of the 32nd nominations for Hollywood's annual hysteria.

The movie business may have suffered a decline, but Oscar is still big news everywhere. Folks from Tokyo to Munich read the nominations eagerly. Chances are, they have seen few if any of the selected films. But that doesn't dim their interest.

Here in Hollywood, the nominations give people something else to talk about beside labor troubles. Here are some items for conversation:

The best picture race seems well matched. Any of them might win — "Anatomy of a Murder," "Ben-Hur," "The Diary of Anne Frank," "The Nun's Story," "Room at the Top." Likewise the star contests seem pretty well chosen.

Sole exceptions might be Jack Lemmon and Doris Day. His performance in "Some Like It Hot" was a triumph of comic skill, but comedy seldom triumphs in the Oscar race. Doris Day's nomination for "Pillow Talk" raised eyebrows. Her role in the fluffy farce was lightweight. She impressed more as an actress in "Love Me or Leave Me."

Pleasant to See a Real Western

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — In this year when just about every show that is not a western or situation comedy is referred to as a special, it was pleasant Wednesday night to see a real one. It was special because of its performers, none of them were familiar on the guest star circuit.

The special was CBS' Star Parade and its format gave Beatrice Lillie, Cyril Ritchard, Tammy Grimes and Tony Randall opportunities to clown, undetected and unrestrained by the usual supervision of a host or hostess.

Miss Lillie sparkled in a couple of typical Lillie numbers. The elegant Mr. Ritchard had the temerity to kid comedy — "Around the World in 80 Days" — and even pulled it off. Tammy Grimes had a charming singing number. And Randall, that performing jack-of-all-trades engaged in a series of satiric blackouts, all very witty.

Earlier, CBS' Playhouse 90 presented a well-acted drama which posed an insoluble problem. The question: May evil means be used to good ends?

Van Heflin played a French captain in Algeria who must decide whether to torture a 15-year-old boy if it is the only way information may be obtained to stop more murders and atrocities by rebel leaders. Richard Ross's drama struggled with the question but never came to grips with any real answer.

The gimmick of Arthur Godfrey's original "Talent Scouts" was that ordinary people brought their discoveries — show business beginners — to a public audition. But it was ignored in NBC's seven-year-old, celebrity-studded, living color adaptation Tuesday. Some of the new faces were familiar to TV audiences, too. Colleen Dewhurst, for instance, drew critical raves because of her performance in CBS' "Don Quixote," and Lester James has been on the Jack Parr show. However, it still provided a pleasant hour of light entertainment.

Recommended tonight: "The Untouchables," ABC, 9:30-10:30 (Eastern Standard Time), first of a two-part series loosely based on the assassination of Mayor Anton Cermak.

Reasons Why Living Cost Dipped a Bit

The cost of living, down for the second consecutive month chiefly because of lower prices for meat, eggs, clothing and new automobiles, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

It said clothing prices took their sharpest December-January drop in nearly 10 years.

The department's consumer price index declined one tenth of one per cent to 125.4 per cent of average 1947-49 prices. This was the lowest price level since last September but still 1.3 per cent higher than January a year ago.

The January decline, coming on top of a drop in December, also marked the first time in four years that the price index had fallen in two consecutive months.

The drop meant that one million auto workers will not receive a cost-of-living pay increase. Another 60,000 aircraft and farm equipment workers will take a penny-an-hour cut. In the trucking industry 14,000 workers will get a cent increase due to previous index rises.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of Labor statistics, predicted the general price level would remain about the same in February and March.

Declares GOP Will Exhaust Southerners

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) declared today the Senate Democratic and Republican leaders are bent on "physically and mentally exhausting the Southerners" before the real civil rights debate begins.

In a senate speech, Ervin pleaded that Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois reconsider their plan to start round-the-clock sessions Monday.

The North Carolinian said there was no use in the Senate's snarling itself up with civil rights until the House acts on such legislation, probably around mid-March. He said the House action will determine the real form of whatever civil rights legislation may finally be enacted.

Ervin asked the leaders to heed this maxim: "It is excellent to have a giant's strength, but it is ruinous to use it as a giant."

Johnson was not in the Senate chamber at the time Ervin spoke. Dirksen, who had listened intently, arose immediately to reply and make it clear he was not retreating in his determination to force votes by wearing down Southern orators.

Saying there are only 26 senators older than he, Dirksen declared: "I just want to say I would be the last man in the United States Senate ever to confess my incapacity to perform my duties."

Missouri Bomb Threat

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP)—The perpetrators of a bomb-threat prank that are known and will be punished, Circuit Judge Marshall Craig said yesterday.

As a result of the telephoned threat, the school system's 3,400 students were sent home Feb. 18. "Teen-age boys made the calls," Craig said. "They thought up and executed their plan as a joke, or prank. No bombs were SWEET BIRD—Jody Youngblood loves Adam Ulysses III dearly. She carries the 8-month-old falcon on her shoulder all day long in her Fort Worth, Tex., restaurant. Once Jody loaned lovable Adam to the city zoo where he promptly tore into aviary cellmates. Now he's back with Jody and all is sweetness.

American Jailed

PARIS (AP)—The U. S. Embassy was informed today that Miss Gloria Claipe de Herrera of Los Angeles has been jailed and charged with "an attack against the external security of the state."

She was arrested Wednesday in a roundup of people suspected of working with the Algerian nationalist movement in France. The embassy said it has asked permission to see Miss de Herrera, 30, an artist, as soon as possible. The embassy said she would be offered legal assistance, extended to any U.S. citizen aboard under such circumstances.

Cancels Racing

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—A stubborn snowstorm that refused to change to rain, as expected, forced Bowie to cancel Thursday's horse racing program.

DEVELOP TV TUBE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kimble Glass Co., a subsidiary of Owens-Illinois, announced the development of a new television picture tube which the company claims eliminates "shadows" in the corners of the TV screen and sharpens the contrast of the overall picture.

Bus, Truck Collide, Only One Is Killed

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP)—A trailer truck jackknifed on a snow-slick curve early this morning and collided head on with a Greyhound bus carrying 22 passengers. Only the bus driver was killed. He was Leland S. Cummins, 50, of Lexington, Ky.

All the passengers were taken to a Richmond infirmary, but only one was believed hurt seriously. He is Robert Taylor, 44, of Detroit. Doctors said his left leg was broken.

Many of the passengers suffered severe shock as well as minor cuts and bruises.

One of the passengers, Ronald Consolver, 18, an Air Force enlisted man from Ft. Gordon, Ga., said the impact had knocked him out of a bus window.

Truck driver Andrew Barnes, 43, of Cincinnati, said he could not control his truck after it had begun to jackknife as he headed around a curve and down a slope toward the mouth of the bridge.

He said the trailer slid across the highway center stripe and smashed head on into the south-bound bus. Barnes was not hurt. The bus was bound from Lexington to Chattanooga, Tenn.

Last Defense for Carole Tregoff

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Carole Tregoff's attorneys launch their last-ditch defense today.

It will probably be their final chance to convince a jury that Carole didn't conspire with her lover, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, to slay his wife. The couple is charged with murdering socialite Barbara Jean Finch, 36, last July 18.

Miss Tregoff's three lawyers launched closing arguments Wednesday with a strong hint that Dr. Finch, 42, could be guilty and his 23-year-old mistress innocent.

Then a juror's toothache halted the trial for a day—giving Dr. Finch and his attorney time to ponder this question:

Will Carole's lawyers claim the doctor is guilty—in a desperate move to save the girl?

Juror Eddie L. Lindsey, 28, received treatment for an impacted wisdom tooth Thursday and the court decided to hold trial today, although earlier it was adjourned until Monday.

Planned Sale of Stock Cancelled

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—State Securities Commissioner Clint Jones has cancelled a proposed $1,300,000 stock sale at request of the sales broker.

The Board of Directors of the Arkansas Investment Corp. of Little Rock and Pine Bluff has decided not to offer 65,000 shares of Roller Derby Skate Corp. stock, Jones said yesterday.

The stock issue was planned for financing of an Arkansas branch of Roller Derby, which is located at Litchfield, Ill.

A stock sale certificate was issued by the state Jan. 21.

A photograph of Gov. Orval E. Faubus and some of the persons connected with the stock caused a mild flurry.

After the photograph was used in a television newscast, Faubus issued a statement saying he was not connected with any stock promotion.

Court Breaks Up a Happy Partnership

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A dog and his owner broke up a happy partnership Thursday.

The happy world he had known for six months with a Dop-eared Beagle hound named Bruno fell apart in a Dallas courtroom.

Justice of Peace W. B. Richburg, bound by the weight of evidence, ordered Bruno restored to Dr. Howard H. McClure Jr., who claimed ownership.

D. C. Howard, grandfather of the schoolboy, testified the dog, lean and starved, showed up last September on his farm, 70 miles northeast of Dallas. He brought the dog to Dallas for Johnny.

McClure spotted Bruno in the dog's yard five days ago and claimed him.

Can you prove this is your dog? Does he know any tricks? Richburg asked McClure.

The doctor gave a series of routine dog tricks commands. Bruno obeyed.

McClure produced a piece of dog candy. He put the tidbit on the

11 of Crew Rescued

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—All 11 crewmen from a sinking American fishing vessel were rescued in rough seas off the Mexican coast early today, the Coast Guard reported.

The Norwegian ship, Tal Ping, answering a distress call went to the assistance of the American vessel, the Adriatic, which was operating out of San Pedro, Calif. The Adriatic was reported sinking about 55 miles southwest of Cape San Lucas, Baja California. Cause of its trouble was unknown.

It Just Ran Hot

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—It was ice cold here Tuesday, but motorist Henry Harris noticed his car engine running too hot. He stopped, checked under the hood, and reported to police someone had stolen his radiator.

McClure spotted Bruno in the dog's nose and ordered Bruno to lose it in the air and catch it in his mouth. Bruno complied.

Richburg was convinced. At his suggestion, McClure paid the grandfather $35 for the dog's keep.

Years streaking his face, John, gave Bruno a tender hug—and atmosphere of Venus as he walked quietly from the courtroom hand in hand with his grand-
